

This is Governor Haley Barbour and I want to urge you to keep a close eye on Tropical Storm (or depression, depending on Friday morning forecast) Fay.

There is no reason to panic. But now is the time for you and your family to make preparations. Be sure you have disaster supplies such as flashlights, batteries, water and non-perishable food items. And, you need an evacuation plan so you'll know where to go and how you would get there if an evacuation is ordered in your area.

Please stay tuned to local media stations for the latest storm predictions. For more information go to MEMA's Web site at [M-S-E-M-A DOT ORG](http://M-S-E-M-A DOT ORG).
